

During a DTS Equip Training course, Jeremy West said: "What our students see is what they will become in missions," implying the standard of the school training they received will become the standard they will multiply.

Looking to the future of what God has spoken to our mission, we see the potential of exponential growth. How do we keep a general high standard for multiplying and pioneering schools in the UofN, yet honour and encourage the diversity of content, context, and individual words of the Lord to the school leaders? How, who, and what will we multiply?

After completing nine UofN Training Schools in ten years as a student, I was approached to pioneer a DTS. I was excited to have this opportunity as my heart is to train students to reach the Unreached. I desired to create a way for the students to participate in daily Bible study during their Outreach, as well as make a way for them to record their daily outreach experience. From this books have been developed.
