

J. West said: "What our students see is what they will become in missions," implying the standard of the school training they received will become the standard they will multiply.

Looking to the future of what God has spoken to our mission, we see the potential of exponential growth. How do we keep a standard for multiplying and pioneering schools in the UofN, yet honour and encourage the diversity of content, context, and individual words of the Lord to the school leaders? How, who, and what will we multiply?

After completing nine UofN Training Schools in ten years, I was approached to pioneer a DTS. I was excited to have this opportunity because my heart's desire is to see training and learning maximised. I wanted to create a way for the students to participate in a daily inductive Bible study, make a way for them to record their daily lectures and more.

From this desire WORKBOOKSPIONEER© books have been developed.

This 12 week course leader and their staff book contains:

- * Place for personal daily bible study notes
- * Pages for Daily lecture notes
- * Basic Leadership Training questions throughout the book
- * Pre-preparation questions for accountability / one on one

It is meant to assist the persons overseeing the course leader/ staff on a weekly basis. It will help with accountability on various levels and trigger good questions for the school leader's growth.
